Sarnia firefighter Kevin McHarg looks over some of the pictures Canadian troops have sent as a thank you to the Hero to Hero Campaign after receiving a signed T-shirt.

whole new show of support for two RCMP officers killed in the line of duty.

Part of that recognition for Canadians will include a special presentation to the families they left behind.

"We've stamped a coin recognizing the two RCMP officers," said Kevin McHarg, a Sarnia firefighter who heads up the Canadian portion of the annual Hero to Hero campaign. "They will be presented to the families at a private reception with the RCMP Musical Ride."

Everyone else looking to show their support for the cause will have their chance June 6 at Royal Canadian Legion Branch 62 on Front Street. Red Friday kicks off at noon.

This year, it also coincides with the 64th anniversary of D-Day.

Because organizers have gotten the Lambton Military Family and Friends Support Group involved, things have moved away from the East Street fire hall this year. They're asking for a $5 donation. It includes lunch.

Ongoing support for the program this year will also include a group photo of Lambton week-long Canadian swing by Hero to Hero founder and director Liz Jackson.

Because of recent health problems, she'll make it as far as the Toronto area before flying out for a one-day stop at the Pentagon. The American was originally scheduled to last six weeks.

The troop morale booster has grown since it first came to Canada three years ago. The first year, 228 Canadian troops received a reminder from home. This year, they're on track to send 1,261, McHarg said.

That number is small compared to the 25,000 Jackson has sent to American troops serving overseas.

This year's event also coincides with the RCMP Musical Ride's two-day stop in Sarnia at the Hiawatha Horse Park and Entertainment Centre on June 7 and 8.

Some of the proceeds from both 2 p.m. performances will support Sunshine Foundation work.

That charity works to make dreams come true for children with severe physical disabilities life-threatening illnesses.
